

Move files from Box Sync to other file storage

If you've downloaded the Box Sync software to synchronize your files, you can easily move your files from Box to other file storage areas such as your G: drive or OneDrive

The easiest way to do this is by opening Explorer or Finder in a new window, then open another window with the intended storage area and then simply drag and drop your files. This way, your folder structure will remain intact after the move when moving entire structures.

Example of storage areas